SAYS PASTORS UNWARE OF MUCH POVERTY

Meeting at the Lutheran Theological Seminary here, delegates to the fourth annual convention of the Maryland Synod of the Lutheran Church in America heard the Rev. Robert E. Neumeyer, director of the Center City Parish in Philadelphia, say that too many Lutheran pastors and laymen are unaware of the poverty which exists in their own communities.

Speaking on a panel, the Rev. L. Crosby Deaton, pastor of Zion Church, Wilmington, Del.; the Rev. Dr. Robert Van Deusen of the National Lutheran Council; Michael Stack, area coordinator for the Office of Economic Opportunity for Pennsylvania, and the Rev. Mr. Neumeyer presented the convention with a report on the church's concern for poverty.

Dr. Van Deusen said the church must be concerned with this problem because of her concern for all that affects the lives of her people. Mr. Stack said there is "almost no limit" to the types of programs that church agencies and congregations can perform with the assistance of federal funds to reduce the severity of poverty in their communities.

THE GOSPEL REACHING OUT
Following the report of the panel, a four-page statement was presented to the convention by the synod's Committee on Social Ministry. The report, adopted by the convention, set forth the committee's philosophy and purpose. "The social ministry," said the report, "is the Gospel of Jesus Christ reaching out through the Church to persons in their need. It has a fundamental place in the life of the Church because it is an aspect of her obedience to the Lord of the Church."

The report continued: "Through social action the Church participates responsibly in the social order by serving persons directly and by attempting to change social structures and conditions

JOHN OYLER WINS PRIZE WITH ESSAY

John Oyler, a Ninth grade student at Biglerville High School and son of Dr. and Mrs. James R. Oyler, Biglerville R. 2, was announced today as the first place winner in the annual essay contest held by the Adams County Bar Association.

The essay was written on the theme "My Impressions of the Courthouse Tour" after the students had made their annual visitation to the courthouse to visit the court offices and attend a portion of a session of court. Oyler will receive a $15 first prize and his essay will be entered in next October's statewide competition held by the Pennsylvania Bar Association for a $250 first prize. Atty. Donald G. Oyler, chairman of the county bar association essay contest, said.

OTHER WINNERS

Assisting Oyler on the committee were Atty. S. M. Rafensperger and Atty. Gerald R. Walmer. The first judging took place in the various high schools where teachers selected the best three from the essays written by their students for submission to the bar association committee. Entries were from Littlestown, New Oxford, Fairfield, Biglerville, Bermudian Springs and Gettysburg Junior High Schools.

Second prize, $10, went to Robert Ritter of Littlestown High School, and third prize, $5, was awarded to Karen Brinton, New Oxford High School.

The first place winning essay by John Oyler follows:

WINNING ESSAY

"Law and justice are not mere words; they are the fundamentals of a great nation. Today the United States, with its concept of law and justice, is diametrically opposed to communism and its injustice and inhumanity to man. For this reason, today, as never before, it is imperative that every citizen fully comprehend the significance and importance of our judicial branch of the government. And what could be a better introduction to its many functions than a visit to the courthouse?"

"The courthouse, whose fa-

Dominican Junta Urges Supervised Elections In "Strife-Torn" Republic

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP)—The Dominican junta proposed Tuesday night that elections supervised by the Organization of American States be held as soon as possible in this divided Caribbean nation.

The junta said all "democratic parties recognized by the Central Electoral Board" should be allowed to participate in the election. This presumably would include the Dominican Revolutionary party of ex-President Juan Bosch in whose name the rebellion was launched April 25.

SEIZE 'CHUTISTS

It was not clear, however, whether the junta would allow Bosch to return from exile in Puerto Rico to be a candidate. He won the presidency overwhelmingly in a free election in 1962, but military leaders overthrew him the next year.

The junta president, Gen. Antonio Imbert Barrera, discussed the election proposal with U.S. Ambassador William Tapley Bennett Jr. and OAS Secretary-General Jose A. Mora before the announcement.

About 1,700 other Marines and 1,700 paratroopers had been pulled out previously. The rebel chief,

Graduates Are Told Freedom Has Its Duties

Addressing the 157th commencement at 10 o'clock this morning at Mt. St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, the Most Reverend John S. Spence, D.D., V.G., auxiliary bishop of Washington, spoke on the responsibilities of freedom, primarily in the Roman Catholic Church.

He charged that man's search for truth will be never-ending and "while we have found the source of truth in that divine reservoir of faith and knowledge called Revelation which is the work of the Holy Spirit, we have not yet discovered truth itself."

"To attain a knowledge of truth, there must be both the freedom to search for it and the authority to define it when it has been found," he said. These factors, freedom and authority, drew much deliberation from the Church fathers as they discussed the nature of the Church at the Second Vatican Council, according to Bishop Spence.

BRING UNITY

Authority, he reiterated, is a necessary principle demanded by the origin and nature of the Church, which is both a supernatural society and a society composed of human beings. He said that "if its members, with all their differences, are to unite their efforts for the single purpose of extending the Kingdom of God on earth, there must be a principle of authority to bring about unity in diversity."

"There must also be freedom in the Church, and it is important that we define both its nature and its limitations," he warned. Since the Church lives in the stream of history, "she must be free to seek the best roads to her eternal destiny" and "where

ADVERTISING EXPERT TELLS OF PROMOTION

John A. Picou, director of advertising for the Atlantic Refining Co., Philadelphia, gave details of travel promotion by the American Petroleum Industry, individual oil companies and other travel agencies at a meeting of the Gettysburg Travel Council Tuesday night in the West St. Bank.

Picou said, "Research shows that 52 percent of the people of this affluent society fail to take a vacation away from home at any time. That means one out of two persons in the U.S. will not be going anywhere this year. If you can attract them into going somewhere, they can be coming to you."

GOOD LOCATION

This area "has a fantastic location, 50 percent of the population of the nation is within relatively easy driving distance to you, and you have something well worth the visitation."

"So you have something to sell, accessibility and a market. The next step is more difficult. There are a lot of people selling something this year. Thirteen billion dollars is being spent on advertising. Research shows that every-

MAY WAS DRY BUT WARMER THAN NORMAL

May was the first month this year with above normal temperatures but it was short of rainfall and left the total so far this year 1.33 inches below normal.

Last month received three times as much rain as May of last year for a total of 2.25 inches but it was 1.82 inches short of normal. Measurable rain fell on only eight days last month.

The accumulation of 15.39 inches up to June 1 this year is a little more than an inch short of the total at the same date last year.

Temperatures last month were not extreme although May 30 saw the lowest temperature on that date in 30 years and the 40-degree reading that morning made it the coldest of the month. There were frequent readings in the 80s last month but the highest for the 31-day period was 89 and that mark was reached the afternoons of May 3 and 16. Four days saw high readings of 88 degrees.

The daily average maximum reading was 77.4 degrees and the daily lows averaged 53.84 degrees, making the monthly average 65.62 degrees. Normal for May here is 63 degrees. In May of last year the average was 64.1 degrees.

TWA CAPTAIN SPEAKER FOR GRADUATION

"Minds are like parachutes, they function only when they are open," Capt. Harold F. Blackburn of Trans World Airlines, told members of the graduating class at the Bermudian Springs High School at commencement exercises Tuesday evening at the high school.

The airline captain, who was in Greece last Friday and returned to this country in time to appear at the school's graduation ceremonies, told the graduating class: "We live in a wonderful world which should never cease to excite us" as he counseled them to take an optimistic view of the world and its problems.

Urging self-examination and the setting of realistic goals, Capt. Blackburn told the Seniors: "The longest trip a person can take is the journey inward. . . . The purpose of knowledge is action," he said as he urged the graduates to make use of their learning.

MODERN TRAGEDY

He spoke of the importance of continuing to learn beyond high school and of "updating our knowledge." He urged better understanding between peoples of the world and noted that in many tongues "the words for stranger and enemy are the same."

"One tragedy of our modern world is that transportation has transformed our world into a neighborhood before man has become ready to transform it into a brotherhood."

SAYS ISSUES FACING GRADS "OLD AS HILLS"

Dr. D. Mitchell Dreese, author, educator and professor of education at Shippensburg State College, Tuesday evening told graduates of Fairfield High School that "the problems you face in your new world are as old as the hills: How to make a living, how to be of service to mankind, how to keep in tune with God and live in keeping with His laws; how to marry and rear a family; how to be a good citizen and how to enjoy your leisure time."

He cited "man's eternal problems" in "an era of technological changes and inventions in which you will witness communications with other planets; the establishment of a colony of men on the moon and other planets; weather control, desalination of salt water and computers which will answer questions by the thousands."

SERVED AS DEAN

Dr. Dreese was a member of the faculty of George Washington University for 30 years and served as dean for 24 years prior to accepting his present position at Shippensburg in 1961. He is a past president of the Division of Counseling Psychology, American Psychology Association, and was a director of the first International Workshop on Guidance in Germany in 1951. American Astronauts Are Ready And Eager For Big 62 Orbit Flight Thursday

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Science Writer
CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)

—The man who will float alone in the heavens Thursday, and his space buddy who will pilot him there, started the last day before flight today with good news and great expectations.

Command pilot James A. McDivitt said: "We've got a good spacecraft, and it looks like we're going to have a good mission. We're ready."

Blastoff is scheduled for 9 a.m. (EST).

"We" are McDivitt and fellow Air Force Maj. Edward H. White II — the man who will step out of the Gemini 4 spacecraft and wait in weightlessness on their second orbit of the earth.

Jr. High Students Help Cancer Fund

The Student Council of the Gettysburg Junior High School announced today that it has turned over $50 to the Cancer Fund of Adams County.

AGENCY NOTES CASE DECLINE IN ASSISTANCE

A marked decline in the caseload was noted Tuesday evening at the meeting of the Adams County Board of Assistance in its office on Chambersburg St.

The caseload was listed as 549, down 23 from the number of cases at the beginning of June a year ago, and the number of persons receiving assistance was listed as 1,092, a decline of 102 from the same date a year ago. While an increase in general assistance and an increase in aid to the disabled was noted, all other forms of assistance declined.

RECOMMEND AWARDS

The board nominated five of its staff members for 10 and 20 years service awards. Theron J. Basehoar, Littlestown, and Roland W. Kime, Gettysburg, both case workers, have completed 10 years on the staff. Virginia W. Parry, Biglerville, the staff supervisor, has had 20 years of service. Ethel M. Sanders, Gettysburg, clerical supervisor, and J. Emory Thomas, custodian, each have served more than 20 years on the staff. The nominations will be made to Public Welfare Secretary Arlin M. Adams for later presentation.

Communications from other County Boards of Assistance opposing House Bill 622 were read and discussed. The bill would amend the "Administration Code of 1929" changing the duties of many boards of trustees of institutions and other boards, such as assistance, in the Department of Public Welfare to advisory rather than administrative.

COMMITTEE REPORTS

Attorney H. Thomas reported that four members and the director, Mrs. Verna Myers, attended a dinner meeting held in Harrisburg by invitation of the secretary of public welfare, Arlin M. Adams. Cyril B. Rickrode reported that he, Mrs. Joseph H. Riley and Mrs. Myers had attended the annual Child Welfare Service's dinner. Mrs. Myers reported that she and George Iriskip had attended a meeting sponsored by the Governor's Committee on Human Service's Council. Two Workmen Are Given Treatment

SCHOOL TAX IS SET TUESDAY; 50 MILLS FOR REAL ESTATE

The school tax for the enlarged Gettysburg Area School District was set at a special meeting of the school directors Tuesday evening at the senior high school building and for Gettysburg borough and two townships it represents a tax increase while in two other townships the levy will be lower than last year's school taxes.

The rate on real estate will be 50 mills. The levy on occupations will be 15 percent and the per capita taxes will total $12.50. The one percent tax on real estate transfers is being continued.

The directors at the same session gave preliminary approval to a $1,258,547 budget. Final adoption of the budget is set for July 1. Tax ordinances will be advertised meanwhile and the budget will be open for public inspection for 30 days.

INCLUDE 5 DISTRICTS

The enlarged school district after July 5 will include Gettysburg borough, Freedom, Highland, Mt. Joy and Straban School Districts. Mt. Joy and Straban voters approved the merger at the primary election in May.

For Gettysburg taxpayers, the new rates are an increase of five mills on real estate and five percent on occupations. Freedom and Highland will experience the same increases.

For Straban Twp. the tax levies are identical with those of last year except that the Straban per capita taxes were $14 instead of the new $12.50.

Mt. Joy Twp. School District enjoys the biggest tax saving of the group. The millage there last year was 55 and the occupation levy was 25 percent. The old per capita tax total there, however, was only $10.

VOTE UNANIMOUS

The roll call vote on the tax motion was unanimous. Nineteen directors attended with only three absentees. Last week, a meeting to set the tax rate had to be adjourned when less than a quorum of directors reported.

The budget figures had been compiled by Supt. H. Edgar Riegler from financial reports of the member districts. His report showed that, of the total budget, $485,142 will have to be raised by local taxes.

He pointed out that the necessary amount could be raised by a 50-mill real estate levy and 15 percent tax on occupations; by a 52-mill levy on real estate and 14 percent on occupations; 55 mills on real estate and 11 percent on occupations or 56 mills and 10 percent on occupations. The first combination was adopted.

"NO FAT IN IT"

Supt. Riegler said he estimated that 98 percent of the real estate taxes will be collected and 90 percent of the occupation and per capita levies.

The expense side of the budget showed these major items: Ad-

Delone Alumni Breakfast Sunday

Reactivation of the Alumni Association of Delone Catholic High School is scheduled for Sunday morning at 11 o'clock in the McSherrystown school's cafeteria.

Clyde E. Sterner, temporary president of the organization, said original plans had called for the session to begin at 10 o'clock with a Mass to be said at the school, followed by the "brunch" meeting at the cafeteria. However, because of the Pentecost observance, Masses may not be said outside the churches Sunday, Sterner said, and as a result all members of the Alumni Association are asked to attend Mass in their home parish church and then arrive for the "brunch" and meeting at 11 o'clock.

Graduates of Delone, or its predecessors, are urged to attend the reactivation meeting. New by laws have been prepared for the organization. In addition to President Sterner, other interim officers are James Wierman, vice-president; Mary McKim Liversberger, secretary; and Doris Staub Leonard, treasurer.

2 COUNCILMEN DEFY QUORUM RULE AT Y. S.

There is at least one group of borough councilmen in Adams County that refuses to postpone a meeting for lack of a quorum: York Springs.

President Wendall Lehman and one other councilman spent the first 45 minutes of Tuesday evening's meeting alone, but persistence was rewarded and after a series of telephone calls another member appeared. The fourth member was attending commencement exercises at Berks High School and could not be reached, but Lehman finally located the fifth councilman in Dr. William Flickinger's waiting room. He promised to come to the meeting as soon as he was finished at the doctor's office.

5TH MAN SHOWS

Meanwhile, the three lonely councilmen discussed various matters including the blinker light at the intersection of Old Rt. 15 and Rt. 94, which the state insists should be replaced by two blinker lights on corner posts. Councilmen rejected the proposal because such action would double the cost of electricity for the borough. However, no official action could be taken. In an informal discussion it was learned that the fire company expects to occupy the creamery building next month.

At 9:30 o'clock the ailing councilman appeared — just in time to approve the bills for payment and hear the treasurer's report, which showed receipts from water collections of $1,220.41. Expenses were $984.91, including $690.57 for repairs to the water system. Receipts from real estate transfer taxes were $129.20. Bills from the general account were $132.01, including $90.31 for electricity.

FIRE DAMAGES HOME TUESDAY

Fire damaged a combination kitchen and living room and resulted in considerable smoke damage to the rest of the tenant house on the L. Lloyd Spahr farm, about two miles west of East Berlin along the Hampton Rd., Tuesday afternoon.

The loss was estimated at $2,500 by K. K. Krout, assistant fire chief of East Berlin Fire Company, and Lloyd Spahr, East Berlin R. 2, owner of the property.

Spahr said he has some insurance coverage on the building. The tenants, Mr. and Mrs. John Kirby, have no insurance, Mrs. Kirby reported.

The blaze was discovered at 2:20 p.m. by Spahr, who lives on an adjoining farm and who had stopped at the tenant farm to water livestock in the barn. No one was at home at the time, firemen reported.

Members of the Hampton and New Oxford Fire Companies assisted East Berlin firemen extinguish the blaze. Abbotstown firemen were alerted to standby for East Berlin in case there would have been any fires in that area while East Berlin was engaged with the Spahr house fire.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market firmed somewhat early this afternoon. However, it still was fairly deep in the loss column.

At the opening the market continued the slide that sent it to one of the worst losses of the year Tuesday.

Brokers said the break was triggered by the statement of William McShesney Martin, Federal Reserve Board chairman, that he found "disquieting similarities" between current business conditions and those of the 1920s.

cade may never have impressed us until our recent visit, nevertheless is the catalyst for the legal activity of our entire county. It may be likened to one of the wheels on which the carriage of democracy rolls. The spokes are the various offices of the county government. To me, the courtroom, where problems of the people are decided and where justice is meted out, is the basis for the greatness of our mighty American Republic.

However, a nation such as ours, which excels in every aspect of government, unquestionably needs more than this. Just as a carriage, to be efficient, needs strong spokes in each wheel to carry a heavy load, so, too, does a government need strength and unity. Each county office helps to support the load of democracy. Our local government, the keystone of our nation, can function efficiently only through the combined efforts of the probationalary, the clerk of courts, the tax assessor, the register and recorder, the treasurer and the commissioners. Each of these elected officials is an assurance to the people that our democratic government will continue in an orderly manner.

"The courthouse has long been symbolic of free people and powerful nations. It stands in majestic proof of our way of life. It guarantees our strength and dignity as individuals and is the foundation on which our freedom has survived. The courthouse is more than a building. It is a living part of America, a shining light of justice and freedom in a world where there is so much inequality and enslavement."

Faulkner Resigns At Mechanicsburg

Tom Faulkner, 36, a graduate of Gettysburg College where he starred in football, resigned Tuesday evening as head football coach at Mechanicsburg High School.

Faulkner, who coached the Wildcats for two years and had a 5-14-1 record, has accepted a teaching position in North Plainfield, N. J. In 1956 he coached Biglerville High School to the Laurel Conference championship.

Bill Freed, baseball coach and assistant football coach at Mechanicsburg, also resigned Tuesday to take a teaching position at North Junior High School, West Chester.

doubt exists, there must be both freedom of dialogue and latitude for an informed conscience to act," he continued.

TWO FOLD LIMIT

Bishop Spence listed a two-fold limitation on this freedom of opinion: "One is a dogmatic decision officially proclaimed by the Church in the field of faith or morals. The second is a factor of prudence."

The bishop stressed that while a Catholic "has a right to free opinion in areas outside of dogmatic decision, prudence may require that he limit the expression of those opinions if they damage the Church, of which he is part, or scandalize the faithful."

He pointed out that there will be tension between the concepts of authority and freedom but that "this tension can even be a good thing if we use it to stimulate dialogue between the hierarchy of Christ's Church and the people of God."

He said that the sometimes frightening gap between the concepts of freedom and authority can only be bridged by responsibility. He compared responsibility to the fulcrum of a seesaw linking the factors of freedom and authority and maintaining the proper balance.

SELF-DISCIPLINE

"He who loves freedom must also learn self-discipline, and he who would accept the badge of authority must realize to the full, and remind himself daily, that he but serves," he added.

His Eminence Lawrence Cardinal Shehan, archbishop of Baltimore, presided at the exercises at which 173 graduates received degrees. Bishop Spence, Rt. Rev. James J. Mooney, Melrose, Mass., and Thomas J. D'Alesandro III, president of the Baltimore City Council, were recipients of honorary Doctor of Laws degrees.

The Rt. Rev. Robert R. Kline, president of the college, introduced Cardinal Shehan to the gathering and extended the congratulations of the college and the student body on Cardinal Shehan's recent elevation to the Sacred College of Cardinals.

Cardinal Shehan addressed the audience briefly, tracing the historical position of Mt. St. Mary's College in American Catholicism and exhorting the graduates to continue to exemplify in their lives the ideals and traditions which they learned at Mt. St. Mary's College.

He then delivered the benediction, concluding the commencement exercises.

Pastor Pleads For Rights For Colored Race: Pledging the loyalty of his race to the state, the nation and to God, the Rev. G. E. Curry, Washington, D. C., former pastor of the local AME Zion church, pleaded for equal rights and privileges in a memorial address Sunday afternoon in Good Will Cemetery here during the annual exercises conducted by the colored residents of Gettysburg. Several hundred persons, white and colored, attended the services which followed a street parade and the strewing of flowers over the graves in the cemetery. Under the direction of Chief Marshall David Stanton the parade moved at 2 o'clock from the corner of West High and South Franklin streets and marched to Good Will cemetery. Aides to the chief marshal were Walter Carter and Emory Thomas. School children's escort included Mrs. Eliza Johnson, Mrs. Anna Marsh, Mrs. Amanda Myers, Miss Priscilla Carter, Mrs. Annie Moser, Mrs. Sanders, Mrs. Mary Penn, Mrs. Cawline Erby and Miss Cora Stanton. Master of ceremonies at the rostrum was Emory Thomas. The Blue and Gray Band played. John Myers, a Gettysburg High School student, gave Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. The Rev. Mr. Curry in his address spoke often of the need of "my people" for the same educational privileges for their children and equal rights and opportunity throughout the nation. "What we need is not relief but the privilege of making an honest living," he declared.

The teaching staff of the Meade school building held a dinner Saturday evening at the Green Parrot tea room, Emmitsburg. Following the dinner, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Hartman entertained the staff at cards at their home on Liberty Street. Included in the party were Miss Maybelle Heretier, Miss Margaret Wentz, Miss Helen Culp, Miss A. Grace Sachs, Miss Beatrice Pfeffer, of Gettysburg; Miss Mildred Shue, Biglerville, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Gentzler, Shippensburg.

King Leopold was "disowned" as ruler of Belgium by the Belgian government in Paris Tuesday after the 28-year-old monarch's sensational order of surrender of the Belgian army heightened the crisis of British and French troops trapped in Flanders. While Frenchmen in the streets of Paris cried "Treason!" at the news of King Leopold's capitulation, Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the house of commons that the British and French governments would ignore Leopold's action. The allies, he said, will carry on with all vigor.

One hundred and eighty-nine graduates of Gettysburg High School attended the 28th anniversary banquet of the high school alumni association Wednesday evening in the old gymnasium at the high school building. There was a large crowd on hand for the annual dance that opened with a grand march after the banquet. Mrs. Ellen Tipton Buehler, president of the alumni association, presided during the banquet program. The formal address of welcome by the president to the 45 graduates was responded to by Robert W. Stoner, class president. Cash alumni awards for scholastic excellence among the members

Today's Talk

ATTITUDE OF MIND
How little do we realize the importance of a right attitude of mind. It can be the one controlling factor in either success or failure.

The great Louis Pasteur, French founder of the science of bacteriology, once said: "Do not let yourselves be discouraged by the sadness of certain hours which pass over nations." Too many of us are influenced by what we read, or hear, not paying attention to the fact that we are an important entity, with a mind of our own. What we think is what shapes our lives.

Our attitude of mind — it's everything! It is what gives to us a successful and happy day, even though we may have been called upon to face many a problem and to have solved each one according to our best judgment. We cannot always be right, but we can think we are until it can be proved to our satisfaction that we are wrong.

It is healthiest to think well of everyone. Habitual suspects of evil make poor companions, and should be shunned as friends. We need those about us who help to keep our chin up and who inspire us toward courageous adventure. It's this attitude of mind that makes all the difference with our associates, our individual work, and our future growth. If it's healthy and intelligent there is nothing to worry about!

It is our attitude toward life in general that catalogs us. We are put in our place the moment we express ourselves. We invite or we repel. It's our attitude of mind that does it. And we have the power of choice within ourselves. How easy it is to get along with a person who is just, generous, magnanimous, and understanding.

A cheerful attitude of mind is sure to put light into the darkest day and dispel every discordant note. It is an essential for the setting of a successful day. Its influence is widespread.

Just Folks

OLD BOYS
When men together meet to play,
Though fat or slim or bald or gray,
They drop the fretful roles of men
And for the time are boys again.

The room with laughter loudly rings,
A song some gray-haired choir boys sings
As if the surplice once he wore
Would fit him still as long before.

The skillful surgeon, grave and wise,
Has merry twinkles in his eyes.
And willingly the somberest chaps
Will put on funny paper caps.

How good it is that grown-up men
Can bring their boyhood back again,
And for an hour or two carefree,
Untroubled and light-hearted be!

Littlestown School Awards Announced; Miss Elder Is Listed As "Outstanding"

Dr. A. M. Paxton, Lancaster County educator, lecturer and administrator, Tuesday evening urged graduates of Littlestown High School to accept "The Challenge of Your Generation" and "be eternally grateful that you were born into a nation in which the great freedoms which we enjoy have made possible the highest standards of living in any nation in the world."

Dr. Paxton has been cited by the Freedoms Foundation for his commencement addresses on Americanism.

"Mine is a generation which has lived through two world wars in the first half of a century which has witnessed more rapid change than was ever experienced in the history of mankind. Yours is a generation which will live to see the dawn of a new century. When the bells toll the opening of the new century, will we be able to say that the later years of the dying century were years of unparalleled economic opportunity or will we find that 'the long dark night of barbarism has descended upon us, without even a star of hope.' It can be either. This I believe, is the challenge of your generation."

Kingsdale Carnival Plans Discussed

Plans for the annual August carnival of the Kingsdale Fire Company were discussed at the monthly meeting of the company held Monday evening in the engine house along the Littlestown-Taneytown Rd. The following exhibit committee was appointed: Harry Hilbert, chairman, Marvin E. Brown and John L. Sweeney.

The company decided to purchase two awnings to be installed in front of the engine house. The purchase will be made from Kenneth Eyer, Littlestown. President Harry Barnes presided and called for reports from Secretary Theron M. Bair and Treasurer Ernest Baumgardner. The fire chief reported two fires were answered during the past month: May 10, grass and trash fire at the home of Charles Frazer; May 11, barn fire at the farm of George Long, Gettysburg.

The firemen will meet again on Monday, June 28, at 8 p.m.

GIRL IN LITTLE LEAGUE IN S.C.

ROCK HILL, S.C. (AP) — Carol Tobias, her blonde hair cropped short, is ready to open the season this week as possibly the only girl ever to play Little League baseball in South Carolina.

"I just like to play baseball," the spunky 12-year-old said during a recent practice break. "If they don't want girls to play Little League with boys, they ought to have a girls' Little League team."

But the Rock Hill Little League baseball commissioner has given her permission to play this year for the York County Natural Gas Authority team.

Her coach, Jimmy Cox, said Carol is a real slugger at 84 pounds and an exceptional outfielder.

"Carol came to play and she'll be playing because she's good — not because she's a girl," he said.

Governor Proposes "Prudent Plan" For Use Of Surplus Pa. Funds; Rules Out Tax Cut

By JACK LYNCH
Associated Press Writer
HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton told the legislature Tuesday that Pennsylvania will end the fiscal year June 30 with a record high surplus of $102,713,510.

Although the surplus mainly will result from an expected excess of about $93 million in tax collections, the governor ruled out the possibility of tax reductions.

"It would be just fooling the public to reduce taxes one year and raise them the next," Scranton told questioning newsmen.

"IMAGINATIVE PLAN"
Instead, he said in a special message to the legislature: "I offer an imaginative plan for its prudent use to build an even better Pennsylvania."

All of the unallocated surplus, plus an additional $42 million expected to result from even higher tax collections next year, will be spent principally on education, welfare and community aid, Scranton said.

(The state constitution prohibits the carry-over of surpluses beyond the succeeding fiscal year.)

MOST FOR EDUCATION

The governor proposed to distribute $43 million for education, including $28 million extra for public schools and $7 million to cut tuition at Pennsylvania State and Temple Universities; $26 million for community aid, and $13.6 million for health and welfare programs.

The message, which the governor said he could not deliver personally because of time limitations, was expected to arouse a storm of discussion in the legislature which returned to work after an extended Memorial Day Holiday.

Another hot subject up this week is consideration by the Senate Education Committee of the House-approved bill for limited transportation of private and of parochial school children on public school buses.

REVISES ESTIMATE

Scranton's surplus estimate, a sharp revision from his original prediction of a $61 million excess for the current year, still falls short of the $120 million or more that Democrats say will occur.

The Democrats contend that the surplus is a result of good economic times and what they called overtaxation in 1963.

The GOP controlled assembly two years ago raised the sales tax from 4 to 5 per cent, the liquor tax from 10 to 15 per cent and the cigarette tax from 6 to 8 cents a package.

ANTICIPATES ARGUMENT

Scranton anticipated the economic argument in his surplus message and that Republicans would "point with pride to the state administration as the chief cause of the new order."

He added:

"The standing rules of politics make it inevitable I suppose, that such progress and prosperity become involved in partisan wrangle. It's a silly argument. Both this administration and the national economy are factors."

"But, the first share and the largest share of the credit should go to the people of Pennsylvania. Primarily, it is their work and their initiative that has made the difference. They are getting the kind of state government they voted for and are willing to pay for.

CAREFUL SPENDING

"The job of this administration is, and will continue to be, to deliver on our campaign pledges and to give Pennsylvania taxpayers their money's worth."

He indicated great care will be taken in spending the excess on one-shot items so that new revenues will not have to be found for them in subsequent years. Of the additional money Scranton proposed to spend $57 million was in nonrecurring areas.

"We already face heavy mandated increases, especially for education, for 1966-67," he said. "Therefore, if we allocate too much of the present surplus to new and expanding programs, it could seriously jeopardize the budget for 1966-67."

Scranton proposed that the estimated $35 million surplus from the sales tax, which is earmarked for education, be spent that way.

EXPLAINS PLAN

He urged that $28 million be distributed to school districts in July "with no strings attached." Another $3.5 million would go to Temple to reduce tuition from $920 to $590 a year and $3.5 million to Penn State to cut tuition from $525 to $390 a year.

Another $8 million would be spent on education this way:

$1.5 million more for the 14 state colleges; $1.5 million for community colleges; $2 million for scholarships; $446,880 more for medical school aid; $600,000 more for Temple's operating costs; $332,957 more for the University of Pittsburgh; and $1.5 million more for retired teachers pensions.

Nearly $26 million more was recommended for community aid, including $10 million to establish a community facilities fund for loans for community projects such as sewage and recreation facilities; $2 million for a pilot program to improve city neighborhoods; $2 million for a new state housing loan program, and $13 million for mass transit aid.

Health and welfare spending proposals totaled $13.6 million, including $2 million for increased medical aid for public assistance recipients and $1 million more for the purchase of hospital-care plan.

JACK LEMMON WILL DO FILM ON FOOTBALL

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Having just about covered all the indoor sports, Jack Lemmon next will turn to football.

Hollywood's all-American star was talking about his career, past and future, after drawing a beer at his Tower Road hacienda.

Lemmon comes close to being the most in-demand star of films and his wife, Felicia Farr, has been acting, too. But now he is enjoying a hiatus, deserved after seven strenuous months of pursuing "the great race."

EUROPEAN TOUR

"I'll wait until the picture opens here in July," said Lemmon as he swirled the beer in his stein. "Then I think we'll take a trip to Scotland and Ireland, visiting the offbeat places not on the tourist path. My ancestors came from there — as well as England, France, Germany and who knows where else — though that's not why I'm going."

"Then I'll go to work in August-September with Billy again. He has been so lucky for me. I hope we can catch fire again."

He spoke of his close friend, comedy wizard Billy Wilder, with whom he made three blockbusters: "Some Like It Hot," "The Apartment" and "Irma La Douce." The plot this time?

ABOUT FOOTBALL

"I can't really do justice to the story, and Billy doesn't like me to tip it off. But it's about professional football. No, I won't be a player; I could hardly do that. I play a guy who takes over a pro team. We'll use the Cleveland Browns in it, and Walter Matthau is getting a leave from 'The Odd Couple' on Broadway to play my brother-in-law."

And what about — uh, sex in this film?

"I doubt if Billy will let a girl get even her nose in this picture," Lemmon commented.

WILDER IS SINGED

His reply was meaningful. Wilder had recently been singled by critics, censors and other busybodies for his exercise in immorality, "Kiss Me, Stupid." Lemmon himself had also been rapped by some of the same persons for a string of sex-oriented comedies.

"Yes, I was concerned a couple of years ago," the Harvard-educated actor conceded. "It just happened that I had a run of sex comedies, and the cumulative effect wasn't good for me."

He feels the trend has changed with "How to Murder Your Wife," which he terms less sexy than a battle of the sexes, and "The Great Race," — "Pure fun for everyone."

Next: good, clean football in Wilder's as-yet untitled film. How pure can Lemmon get?

Asks Study Of Nuclear Policy

PARIS (AP) — The United States has proposed that a committee of four or five NATO members be set up to study nuclear policy and procedures for the Atlantic Alliance to give America's allies a bigger voice in nuclear decisions.

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara advanced the proposal to a session of the defense ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. It apparently was a new U.S. effort to meet demands of France and other NATO partners for a voice in the life-and-death decisions that might face the West in a future crisis.

McNamara said the committee should meet as promptly and frequently as necessary to study:

— How to expand Allied participation in planning the use of both strategic and tactical nuclear forces.

— Methods for quick consultation among NATO members on any decision to use nuclear forces. This could include "hot lines" between NATO capitals.

George (Red) Sullivan, who has been rehired to coach the New York Rangers for the next two seasons, is the youngest National Hockey League coach.

Tiny Firecrackers Look Like Candy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fireworks which look like small colored candy balls are posing a new danger.

The Food and Drug Administration said Friday that some youngsters have mistaken the balls for candy.

Commissioner George P. Larrick said several cases have been reported from Ohio and the District of Columbia in which children bit into the balls and were injured.

Guidelines Of Johnson Regime Getting Big Test

By SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — If the honeymoon of the Johnson administration and business fades it might well be due to government's new tool for influencing economic behavior — guidelines.

They are being applied to prices, wages, investments and banking practices. They are undergoing their first big test right now.

Guidelines join the traditional government tools of taxes, subsidies, and supervising agencies. All are used to shape the economy more or less.

OPPOSE POLICY

Opposition to the new tool of guidelines is rising in some business and banking quarters as well as in some labor unions.

One example is in steel. Labor objects to government's saying it should ask so much and no more to avoid inflation. Management resents government saying how much it could raise wages without increasing prices. And any government censure of steel price increases brings angry replies from some steel executives.

Government guidelines as an influence on economic decisions differ from other tools in several ways. By definition they rest on voluntary compliance.

EXERT PRESSURE

They are implemented to a large degree by exerting pressure of public opinion. And they usually carry at least an implied threat that if business doesn't follow the guidelines, government may step in and impose controls.

The moral that government hopes management and labor will grasp is that voluntary compliance to guidelines of what Washington thinks is best for the economy is preferable to controls or direct penalties.

Business takes all of the government's economic tools into account when making its decisions.

TESTING STAGE

Guidelines are now in the testing stage. Those aimed at wages and prices seek price stability from two approaches: 1. Labor costs should rise only as much as output per man-hour rises; 2. Prices should rise only in industries where output per man-hour lags behind the national average and should fall in industries with greater than average productivity gains.

Compliance runs up against the natural desire of workers for higher pay and of management for tailoring prices to demand and competition as well as to production costs.

CITE GOALS

In the field of investments and banking, the government guidelines have as goals: 1. Keeping long-term interest rates low enough to inspire economic growth; 2. Keeping U.S. dollars home, both by keeping short-term interest rates high and by getting corporations voluntarily to cut back on overseas investments and inducing banks to trim foreign loans.

Here compliance has worked so far. But corporations grumble that over the long run their overseas investments would return more dollars in profits than they now cost in construction. And banks argue that much of their overseas lending is to finance American exports which strengthen the U.S. dollar more than any lending can hurt it.

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Mr. Hin fights for two things: pride and pay.

He is a Nung, one of the tribespeople who for centuries have fought as mercenaries in the wars of Indochina and China. They are rated in the same class as the famed Gurkhas of India.

Mr. Hin is the big chief of 600 Nungs who serve as bodyguards and strike troops in northwest South Viet Nam for the U.S. Army's Special Forces.

NEVER PANIC

Their prowess is legendary among the Americans along the battlefield out here, who like them because they never panic in battle.

Most Nungs range from 4 feet 10 inches to 5 feet 3 inches in height and from 90 to 120 pounds in weight. They are paid an average of 2,500 piasters a month — about $34.

Mr. Hin is a giant Nung. He stands about 6 feet, very erect and keen eyed. As sergeant major—the highest rating a Nung is allowed to reach—he gets 6,000 piasters a month, or about $82.

SPIRITUAL LEADER

"I don't know how the other Nungs picked Mr. Hin, but he seems to serve also as their spiritual leader," said Maj. Richard I. Allen Jr., Miami, Fla., a Special Forces officer now on his second year of voluntary duty here.

"He admits to being 38. He is a good manager, very proud, and has absolute command of his men."

"When a Nung is too old or sick to continue, he'll usually tell you so himself," said Maj. Allen. "Pride won't let him do a bad job. He is then mustered out with a month's bonus pay."

The Nungs represent a cross-section of the situation here in terms of both religion and experience. A few are Buddhists, a few Catholics, but most are Confucianists.

"We and the Australians train them in handling weapons," said Allen.

"They are traditional soldiers. They are absolutely loyal to leadership. They will do what they are told to do in the most pressing circumstances, and they will tear into anybody and anything."

"It isn't true that they cut off heads or collect ears. They just kill the enemy. They aren't sadistic. But I suppose if they were told to bring back enemy ears, they'd bring them back. They obey orders."

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — An open letter home:

Dear Frances and Tracy, Well, sweet ducks, I hope you are not spending the old man into bankruptcy while I'm away and too sentimental to cut off your credit. Spend less, live more.

You may be wondering what is going on over here. So do I. When I was here 48 hours, I thought I knew for sure what the truth was here. Now that I have been here toward 48 days, I'm not so sure what is untrue. Perhaps that is a growth toward education and is typical. In any case, I would like to find out and will continue to seek to learn what I can know.

SPEND BILLIONS

What it seems to me that we are doing is pouring out billions of American dollars and the earnestness of, eventually, perhaps hundreds of thousands of well-trained American soldiers on the doubtful hinge of victory.

The hinge, I suspect, is whether we stay in the spending area long enough to create a middle class. Can our dollars and our soldiers and our dreams make permanence here? And that hinge, of course, is whether the Vietnamese can among themselves create a stable government that is able to achieve and reflect their national glory — and not resent our help too much.

Well, enough of politics. I suppose you may be more interested in personal things.

GREAT DIGNITY

There is great dignity and sweetness among these people in the midst of the dire and perilous lives they live. They have time for kindness if you have, and sometimes if you haven't.

They respond immediately to a courtesy, a kindness, a smile and a help. Without being fatuous about it, I think if they can make a methodical government attentive to the people's goals then our billions spent here and our presence here will be worthwhile. Our support to their own goals of dignity won't have been wasted.

Of course, sometimes homesick men away from home fasten their dreams on the performance of an individual.

"LITTLE ONE"

To many of us at the press center here our "Miss Viet Nam" is a 13-year-old orphan we call "Little One."

She is tiny, black-haired, ready-smiling, works like a Trojan, cleaning and polishing and serving drinks. Everybody tries to teach her a new English word every day, and she blooms under our adulation like a flower responsive to a bright sun.

She makes us all feel better every day. She's our dream daughter away from home. We have plans to buy her a smart uniform, and long-term plans to raise a fund to educate her.

"GRAVY TRAIN" BILL PASSES

HARRISBURG (AP) — Legislative efforts to eliminate by statute the so-called "insurance gravy train" shifted to the Senate today after winning overwhelming support in the House.

Passed in the House Tuesday by a vote of 166-35, the bill would ban by law what Gov. Scranton already has banned by executive order — the distribution of commissions on safe insurance to politically favored brokers.

Opposition came from 21 Republicans and 14 Democrats, including House Speaker Robert K. Hamilton, D-Beaver.

Rep. H. Jack Seltzer, R-Lebanon, principal sponsor of the bill, said its purpose is to guarantee that future governors after Scranton do not return to the practice of allowing political leaders to split accumulated commissions among favored brokers.

The bill would continue the practice started by Scranton of distributing the commissions to the Pennsylvania Higher Education Assistance Fund.

However, it would go a step further, making the secretary of property and supplies the broker of record, eliminating the $15,000-a-year job now held by former state Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, Republican power in Dauphin County.

That means our conscience to her own future will force us to lose her. We all hate to face up to that, but we shall. Oh, I guess I started to write you about something else — but this is what I have written. I'll have to tell you later about how I've figured how to whip the enemy Viet Cong — in 12 easy years. Your homesick husband and father, Harold.

ABEL TAKES COMMAND OF USW TUESDAY

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III

PITTSBURGH (AP) — I. W. Abel shepherded the United Steelworkers of America today into a new chapter of its history. The first order of business will be negotiation of a new contract with the P basic steel industry.

Abel took command Tuesday from David J. McDonald, president for 12 years, who Abel defeated in a Feb. 9 election.

His voice breaking, McDonald turned over to Abel the keys to his office and a gavel, symbolic of the $50,000-a-year job he leaves for a $25,000-a-year pension.

The change in command of the nation's third largest union, which represents the biggest leadership shuffle in the union's 23-year history, took place at ceremonies attended by AFL-CIO president George Meany and others of labor's top leadership.

Negotiations with the basic steel industry, twice interrupted by the Abel-McDonald campaign and the election, were a recurrent theme in the ceremonies.

Abel called them "the greatest, primary challenge in the months ahead." He denied, in his inaugural address, that he or his associates are strike happy, but served notice on the industry that Steelworkers are ready "to lay down their tools when it becomes necessary."

CHILD KILLED

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Jeffrey Allen Weller, 3, of Carlisle R. 4, was killed Tuesday when struck by a car on the Newville Road about 2½ miles west of tion Assistance Fund.

However, it would go a step further, making the secretary of property and supplies the broker of record, eliminating the $15,000-a-year job now held by former state Sen. M. Harvey Taylor, Republican power in Dauphin County.

Trapped 5 Hours On Car Coupling

LACKAWANNA, N.Y. (AP) — "It was a ghastly experience," said Joseph Martin of his forced five-hour rail ride from Erie, Pa., to Lackawanna after his foot became trapped in a freight-car coupling.

The 37-year-old construction worker suffered a crushed right foot in the Sunday episode. He was reported in fair condition at a hospital here.

Martin said he was taking a short cut to his auto in an Erie freight yard. His foot caught as he climbed over the coupling between two freight cars.

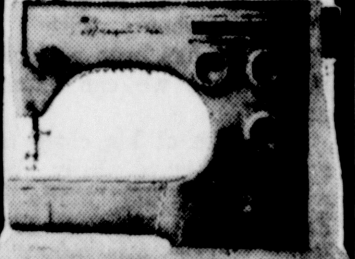

Before Martin could get help, the train started moving, the coupling tightened and it was 2½ hours before he could free his right foot.

He clung to a railroad-car ladder for the last leg of the 100-mile journey.

Grissom And Young To Help Next 2 Astronauts

By HAROLD R. WILLIAMS
AP Aerospace Writer
HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) —

What can experienced space travelers tell two rookies? Astronauts Virgil I. Grissom and John W. Young — the first manned Gemini mission crew — believe they can make the four-day flight James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II are to start Thursday a bit easier.

"I plan to sit down with them and talk it over," he said. Grissom is the only man to have flown in space twice.

Young said he had written a 50 to 60-page report on personal observations made while he and Grissom orbited the earth three times during the first manned Gemini flight March 23.

"A TOUGH MISSION"

"They are free to take the report any way they want to," said Young, "but to try to help those guys, to minimize any new type experience for them — well, they're going to have to live in that baby four days. It's going to be a tough mission."

Young says he will tell McDivitt and White not to be shocked when the sheet of fire closes around the spacecraft after the first-stage engine shuts down and the second-stage engine starts.

"It was a surprise for me," Young said. "You get this flash of light, what we call fire in the hole. It's instantaneous. It's like all of a sudden you see it, and then you don't. You don't have time to even think about it. Gus knew about it, so it didn't surprise him."

"REALLY GOOD TEST"

Young said the four-day mission would be the "proof of the pudding as far as the spacecraft is concerned."

"I don't think there's anything the man has to do in the four days that he can't do, but it will be a good systems test," he said. "A really good systems test for extended mission operation for Gemini."

A big surprise, the jolt that comes when the landing-parachute system changes from a one-point suspension to two-points, won't be a shock to McDivitt and White. They will be ready for it, which was more than Grissom and Young were. "My feeling is that it's a damned hard rap," Grissom said, "and there's no way to get prepared for it. If you know it's going to happen it won't surprise you, but that's a doggone hard snap and these people can pooh-pooh it all they want."

"It was a surprise — the biggest surprise on the whole flight. Nobody had thought about what a shock it would be. They hadn't even considered it. In some of the maneuvers we had expected some surprises, but this one — it was a damn hard rap."

Young has spent the past three weeks at McDonnell Aircraft Corp., makers of the Gemini spacecraft in St. Louis, working out a system to reduce the hard jerk.

Grissom shattered his helmet's face plate when the jolt occurred and Young scratched his. It was determined the force was about 2½ times the force of gravity.

But no solution has been worked out for McDivitt and White. They will have to make sure their harnesses are tight and be ready. A spring-bumper device may be installed for future Gemini flights.

Upon recommendations from Grissom and Young, McDivitt and White will remove their space suits as soon as possible after they splash down in the Atlantic.

Grissom says there is no advice on what to do when something unexpected happens. During the March 23 flight a power converter failed and all the lights, gauge needles, clocks, everything depending on electricity, went dead.

"It gives you quite a start,"

2 Advisers Killed In SVN

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Army advisers were reported killed Tuesday and a third wounded in a Viet Cong ambush near Pleiku, 220 miles northeast of Saigon.

The toll of American dead in combat in Viet Nam rose to 395 since December, 1961. Two other Americans were killed over the weekend in the heavy fighting in Quang Ngai in which an estimated 600 Viet Cong and more than 500 South Vietnamese troops were casualties.

At least six Americans were wounded in scattered ground and air actions during the past two days, U.S. military spokesmen said.

U.S. Navy planes hit again at targets in North Viet Nam and one F8 Crusader was shot down by antiaircraft fire. The pilot ejected over the sea, a spokesman said, and was picked up in good condition about 10 minutes later by a rescue plane.

The Navy pilots said they dropped two tons of bombs on a Grissom said, "You know where you are and to see something like that — well your heart skips a beat. Then you switch to the backup supply and everything is normal again. But how can you advise somebody against something like that?"

A Lovelier You

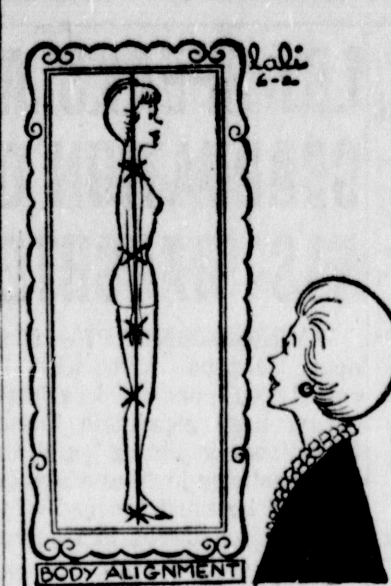

By MARY SUE MILLER

In a quest for good looks, too little thought is given to good posture. Yet one's figure proportions, vitality, fashions, and even one's personality, are enhanced by good and graceful carriage.

To see the truth of that statement, you only have to picture a slumping female. How pretty does she look? How personable, how poised?

With her sad image in mind, you just might find this moment ripe for checking your own performance. How perfect is it? Ideal posture starts with correct body alignment. And that means lining up your body so that all segments, from head to toe, fall into their natural position.

There is nothing artificial, much less arty, about perfect posture. It is standing as nature intended — erect, relaxed and gracefully balanced. Here's the formula:

1. Draw your neck out of your shoulders and hold your chin parallel to floor. 2. Relax your shoulders; strain them neither backward nor forward.

3. Elevate your chest, as on a deep breath.

4. Pull your waist out of your hips to form a slim column. 5. Retract your hips; slide them down and under the body. 6. Keep your knees together and bend them slightly. 7. With feet together, center your weight on the balls of feet. 8. Let your arms fall relaxed, so that your fingertips brush the sides of your skirt.

Now, practice, practice, practice!

You can diet until you become feather-light and still be hip-heavy. Reduction in the hip-line is assured only by exercise. Scientists Study Solar Eclipse On Jet Flight HILO, Hawaii (AP) — Scientists, back from an awesome flight in the moon's shadow as it raced across the Pacific at 1,700 miles an hour, today pored over their observations of a total solar eclipse last Sunday.

The 30 men, jubilant over a mission they called highly successful, flew in a specially modified jet transport of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and conducted 13 experiments.

"The flight was perfect, and every experiment worked," said Dr. Michel Bader, director of NASA's Ames Research Center and leader of the eclipse expedition. "It was a really fine success."

MONTHS OF STUDY

The scientists don't expect to know possibly for months whether they've learned any of the sun's secrets. But they know that they will not soon forget their close-up view of nature's most spectacular show.

David Perlman, science writer for the San Francisco Chronicle, the only newsman aboard the eclipse plane, described the phenomenon as seen from 39,500 feet.

"Flying at nearly 600 miles an hour, the scientists observed the eclipse through their instruments for 9 minutes and 42 seconds."

2,000-MILE CHASE

The airborne observatory intercepted the eclipse after a 2,000-mile chase about 2,110 miles southeast of Hilo. The intercept was "dead-on — precise to the second and accurate within a mile."

The eclipse was entirely over water, from the tip of New Zealand 8,000 miles eastward to the coast of Peru.

"Through dark glasses, the sun's left edge appeared mutilated by a small nibble of darkness. Dr. Bader continued a countdown. The sun turned steadily into a shining crescent as the moon eclipsed it more deeply," Perlman wrote in a pooled dispatch.

"As the moon's disc advanced farther across the sun, the sea took on a twilight cast of blue-gray. The clouds above the ocean turned from yellow to orange, then dull-pink. It was sunset at midmorning."

NASA scientists and space experts from Belgium, the Netherlands, Italy and Switzerland attended to their instruments as the moment of totality approached. Among their tasks were recording corona brightness, air glow, comets speeding toward the eclipsed sun, spectrographic observations and magnetism.

The full shadow of the moon overtook the eastward-winged plane.

"A final, intense burst of tiny dotlike gleams shone from the lost sun's edge — the few seconds of light in which the last rays of the eclipsed sun showed through the mountains of the moon."

"Then came the corona, suf-

MOVIE FIRMS DEBATE MOVE TO MODERNIZE

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The will-o-the-wisp of a truly modern movie studio for Hollywood has not yet gone a-glimmering. Last year the town was startled by a bold proposal: a brand-new studio complex to be built in the Malibu Mountains and operated jointly by MGM, 20th Century-Fox and Columbia.

The reasoning behind the plan seemed simple enough: the studios' physical plants were aging; a completely new studio could introduce more modern methods of film-making with consequent savings; the present studios occupy highly taxable land within the city; combining facilities would cut down overhead and eliminate slack periods.

OUTSIDE SMOG BELT

Not the least consideration was that the new studio would be outside Los Angeles' smog belt.

But Hollywood wasn't ready for a revolution, and the tri-studio plan died in company committees.

The proposal did stimulate the thinking of MGM executives on modernization matters, and the company is now toying with the idea of going it alone with a new studio. MGM has acquired from the Janss Corp. a two-year option on the purchase of a 1,500-acre plot at Thousand Oaks, 30 miles northwest of Hollywood.

IDEAL CONDITIONS

The Conejo Valley property affords ideal conditions for film making. The climate is mild, though a bit warmish in summer. There is plenty of flatland for offices, stages and street sets, plus rolling hills and wooded canyons for outdoor locations. The studio would be easily reached via freeways.

MGM is moving ahead with its study. A feasibility survey will be handed over to planners who will create designs for the new studio and estimate costs. Their findings will be presented to the board of directors in late fall. The estimate for new construction is hopefully set at $30 million; if the planners' figures go too far beyond that mark, the project might be abandoned.

ORIGINAL STUDIOS

Most of the studios of Hollywood, meaning Culver City, Westwood, the San Fernando Valley as well, date back to the early 1920s or before. Some of the stages were built in that era, although most went up during the talkies boom of the early 1930s.

The MGM lot came into existence in 1919, when the founder of Culver City offered 40 free acres to any movie makers who would establish studios there. Canny Sam Goldwyn knew a bargain when he saw one; he put up his studio there.

MGM flourished for the next 25 years, adding back lots that brought its total property to 187 acres. The last six of the 32 stages were built in 1938.

Technology has advanced, yet fusing the sky with a soft but brilliant bluish glow... a halo around the black disc of the moon's shadow.

Also flying in the shadow of the moon last Sunday was an Atomic Energy Commission Air Force plane with 15 scientists. Their duration in the eclipse was nearly five minutes. Nine experiments were conducted.

Israeli Forces Accuse Assault

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel accused Jordanian forces of firing on the Israeli sector of Jerusalem Monday, killing two persons and wounding four. Jordan countered that Israeli troops provoked a clash with Jordanian forces.

Gunfire was heard again in the area early today, but no details were available immediately.

Thailand has five universities.

movies are still made with the same bulky equipment of 30-odd years ago. Introduction of new methods was delayed in the past 15 years as the film industry fought for its very survival.

Now, it appears, the film companies will make it. But will they also adopt modern methods? The surveys now being made at Thousand Oaks may well determine that.

LBJ SPEAKS AT GRADUATION OF HIS DAUGHTER

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson told what he called the concerned, committed younger generation Tuesday he believes in debate on the nation's policies in time of danger, but said he must proceed on the course he believes is right, regardless of criticism.

The President hit this central theme in a commencement address to the graduating class at the National Cathedral School for Girls. His daughter, Luci, 17, was one of the graduates at the private school.

Johnson told young Americans to use their patents to help in the struggle of the world's poor to create a better life. He said this is a moral commitment.

But mainly the President talked of something to which he said he has given much thought.

He said that he knows the large majority of Americans support the effort everywhere to stop aggression but he also knows discussion is one of the great strengths of American democracy.

The appearance at the commencement was a repeat performance for Johnson. He addressed the earlier class in which his elder daughter Lynda, now 21, was graduated.

Again, as he has on several occasions recently, Johnson was reflecting his awareness of arguments and demonstrations on and off campuses, mainly over the nation's course in foreign affairs.

"LIFTS MY HEART"

"And it is nice of you," the President said, "to let a much older and rather solemn man talk to you about his problems. I hope you know how it lifts my heart to see you, and to know a

"MARTIN'S LIE" CALLED DARK HOUR SUNDAY

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Gian Carlo Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors" over the years in repeated NBC performances has become one of television's classics. It is unlikely, however, that a more recent Menotti effort, "Martin's Lie," will ever achieve such network status.

The first American performance of the work on CBS Sunday was the highlight of the long holiday weekend. The production was taped a year ago when it had its world premiere in England's Bristol Cathedral.

Where "Amahl" tells a joyous, warmly inspirational story, "Martin's Lie" is a somber, 16th century tale of cruelty and unhappiness. Its climax comes when a 9-year-old child dies of stark terror, threatened with having his eyes burned out.

LONG, DARK HOUR

Menotti, of course, was making a point. Martin, an orphan in a rat-infested monastery, chose death to revealing the hiding place of a heretic who had convinced Martin that he was his father.

In a short prologue Menotti explained his theme—that love could triumph over truth.

The medieval settings and trappings were impressive, as were the voices of the principal singers — particularly that of the boy Martin, played by Michael Wennick, 14. But the message seemed fuzzy and diffused. It was a long, dark hour on a sunny afternoon.

NEW SITUATION

When Shirley Booth and her comedy series go from NBC to CBS this fall, it may take a while to get accustomed to "Hazel's" new family situation.

She will be employed by another Baxter family — presumably the brother and sister-in-law of "Mr. B." But Don De Fore and Whitney Blake who played her family for so long will be missing. Bobby Buntrock, who played their son, still will be around. It will be interesting to note how they explain the complete disappearance of his television parents.

Prunes are a delicious accompaniment to meat — lamb, pork, beef — and they may be flavored with orange or spices. Prunes for such service should be offered in a small amount of thick rich syrup.

PA. DEMOCRATS REACTING TO NEW BUDGET

HARRISBURG (AP) — Accusing him of a "judicious numbers game," legislative Democrats claim Gov. Scranton purposely underestimated revenues from his 1964-65 budget to foster "presidential political plans."

This was the substance of Democratic reaction Tuesday to Scranton's report that the administration expects to finish the current fiscal year with a $102.7 million surplus, some $40 million more than originally anticipated.

The governor overtaxed in 1963 and underestimated revenues in 1964 so he could come up with the large surplus, charged Rep. Joshua Eilberg, D-Philadelphia, House majority leader.

SEE BUDGET DELAY

Senate Minority Leader John H. Devlin, D-Allegheny, predicted the surplus would run considerably higher — say possibly $139 million — at the end of the fiscal year, June 30.

Eilberg indicated that Democrats would go through with their plan to refuse to approve regular appropriations bills until the surplus question is settled to their satisfaction. This would mean the state would have to operate on stop-gap appropriations in the new year.

Neither Eilberg nor Devlin mentioned the possibility of a tax cut, but Sen. William J. Lane, D-Washington, minority whip, brought it up, suggesting that Scranton follow the lead of the Johnson Administration.

Scranton had already ruled out the possibility in his message.

"A REAL SURPLUS"

"Something has to be done for the people of Pennsylvania who have been misled into paying taxes to accumulate this surplus," declared Eilberg. "Pennsylvania does need improvements. There is hardly an area in which these improvements are not desperately needed."

"But why have we waited until now to officially announce the surplus with which to accomplish needed programs?"

Banker, Minister Get High Honors

HARRISBURG (AP) — A Butler banker and a Pittsburgh minister have received the Masonic order's highest honor from Earl F. Herold, grand master of Masons in Pennsylvania.

Herold Tuesday made John S. Campbell Sr., director of the and the Rev. Dr. Robert J. Lamont, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, Masons at sight. Each received all three degrees in freemasonry, rituals that generally take three months to attain.

Herold said the two were honored for their contributions to their communities.

REDS DENY MAO SUFFERS STROKE

TOKYO (AP) — The British government received reports over the weekend that Mao Tse-tung may have suffered a stroke, but Red Chinese officials in Peking insisted that the 71-year-old Communist party boss is in good health.

A correspondent of the Japanese news agency Kyodo said Liao Cheng-chin, a member of the Chinese Communist party's Central Committee, told him Monday: "Chairman Mao is in excellent health. I just saw him yesterday."

The correspondent said other authoritative sources in Peking told him Mao attended a party meeting Sunday and was in good health.

The British government, which has a diplomatic mission in Peking, stressed that its reports were speculative and were being treated as such.

The school children of Pennsylvania already could have been benefiting except for the inadequacy of the governor's fiscal estimates.

In reply, Rep. Kenneth B. Lee, R-Sullivan, minority leader in the House, said "at least Gov. Scranton has a surplus, a real one, that does exist."

"This is unlike the previous administration where Democratic Gov. David L. Lawrence said he had a surplus, only to leave something like a $39 million deficit," Lee said.

U. S. NUCLEAR STOCKPILE TO BE INCREASED

PARIS (AP) — Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara says the U.S. nuclear stockpile in Europe will be twice its 1961 size by this time next year.

"We are now shipping such substantial amounts (of nuclear warheads) that within 12 months the stockpile will be 100 per cent greater than in 1961," McNamara told newsmen after the meeting of defense ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization ended Tuesday.

He said in December, 1961, he told the NATO ministers there were thousands of nuclear warheads on European soil.

He branded as "absolutely untrue" reports that the United States is planning to withdraw its nuclear muscle from Western Europe.

STEADY INCREASE

"There has been a steady increase in the stockpile over the last four years," McNamara said, adding that since January the number of nuclear weapons in Europe had increased by 10 per cent.

McNamara said the stockpile includes warheads for U.S. forces and those intended for use by Allied forces in case of war. All are in custody of U.S. troops as required by U.S. law. The NATO meeting agreed to give further study to a U.S. proposal to share some nuclear controls with other NATO members through a committee of four or five defense ministers.

The committee presumably would include the United States, Britain, France, West Germany and one of the smaller NATO countries.

STUDY U.S. PLAN

The proposal falls short of French President Charles de Gaulle's demand for a U.S.-British-French directorate for NATO. French Defense Minister Pierre Messmer said France would study the U.S. proposal attentively.

The NATO ministers again endorsed a "forward strategy" for the alliance, which means active defense of all NATO ter-

McNamara said the United States "strongly supports (fulfilling) the forward strategy by whatever weapons are required for the defense of the soil of Western Europe."

NEGRO FAMILY AT FOLCROFT IS STAYING ON

By STAN BENJAMIN
FOLCROFT, Pa. (AP) — "I think, in time, we will live a normal, happy life. All that is necessary is for them to see that we live the same way they do."

For almost two years now, since those words were spoken, Horace Baker, 28, and his family have lived as virtual outcasts in their community — the first and still the only Negroes in Delmar Village, a development of brick row homes in this suburb just south of Philadelphia.

The angry mob, the screams of "nigger," the rock-shattered windows, the protective cordon of state police that greeted them when they moved into their new home on Aug. 30, 1963, are only a memory now — one which the embarrassed Borough of Folcroft wants to forget.

"NO COMPLAINTS"

But the simple, getting-to-know-you acceptance that Baker so hopefully predicted on that nightmarish moving day never came about.

"It hasn't happened. I was entirely wrong," he now admits. "The situation, the way it happened, made it entirely impossible. I don't think they could really trust me or I could really trust them any more. It would have to take a long, long time."

"Nobody bothers them," said a woman neighbor across the street, "but nobody goes out of their way for them, either."

Folcroft's mayor, Hugh McVicker, describes the atmosphere in Delmar Village these days as "excellent."

"We've had no complaints from the Bakers or the people around them," he says. "Of course, when a man moves into a community, whether he's white or Negro, it's up to him to make his own friends."

DETERMINED TO STAY

Neither Baker, a medical laboratory technician born in Lakeland, Fla., and raised in Miami, nor his wife, a native of Sellersville, Pa., and a registered nurse, had experienced the full impact of a race situation before they moved to Folcroft. It has changed their lives.

If Baker could, would he move into Delmar Village all over again?

His answer is a firm, "No." But equally firm is his determination to stay, now that he's there. It seems some of his optimism has survived after all.

"I would say my plans are to try and reach some mutual level of understanding between the community and myself," he says. "We are all supposed to be so-called reasonable people."

Widow Of Kennedy's Assassin Is Married To A Divorced Texan

By PAUL RECER
FATE, Tex. (AP) — Marina Oswald, widow of President John F. Kennedy's assassin and an electronics technician she met a month ago began married life today in a white brick house on a quiet street in a Dallas suburb.

Mrs. Oswald, 23, a pretty Russian-born blonde, and Kenneth J. Porter, 27, a divorcee father of two, were married in this small north Texas farming community Tuesday.

The couple was introduced a month ago at the home where Porter was staying, just two doors from Mrs. Oswald's residence in Richardson.

WED BY JUSTICE

The marriage ceremony, performed in the office of a justice of the peace, followed a hectic day in which the couple went to Durant, Okla., for a blood test and to Sherman, Tex., for a marriage license. They avoided a three-day Texas waiting period by getting the blood tests in Oklahoma.

The wedding party, which included a best man and a woman attendant, eluded newsmen leaving Durant.

Mrs. Bill Clark, a neighbor, said the couple met shortly after Porter, a friend of her son, moved into a room at the Clark house.

"LIKED PORTER"

Mrs. Oswald apparently liked Porter from the beginning, Joe Clark related, and confided recently that she loved him. He said Porter "was crazy about" Mrs. Oswald's two young daughters but "had kept pretty quiet about their plans."

The newlyweds arrived at their home in Richardson hours after the ceremony. They allowed pictures but answered few questions from newsmen.

The bride, wearing a white dress with bows on the skirt, said she felt "wonderful—I just want to be alone with my husband."

After only a few minutes at the house the couple left for an undisclosed destination.

SCRIBES LOSE TRAIL

A Dallas reporter and photographer, tipped about the wedding plans, started following the couple at 6 a.m. Tuesday as they began a 90-mile drive to Durant. Newsmen lost the trail, however, as the party doubled back to Sherman for the marriage license.

Mary Chumbley, a deputy clerk at the courthouse, said they "seemed anxious to get away, to escape publicity." She didn't ask Mrs. Oswald a usual question about previous mar-

House Passes Bill On Disabled Hunters

HARRISBURG (AP) — Disabled Pennsylvanians are a step closer today to authorization to hunt from their automobiles.

A bill extending the privilege to all disabled Pennsylvanians, not just disabled veterans, was passed by the House Tuesday and sent to the Senate on a vote of 201-0.

The House also approved another hunting measure which would include deer with antlers less than three inches long in the category of "antlerless deer" and make them legal game during the state's antlerless deer season.

The measure won a 200-3 vote in the House, also going to the Senate.

AUTHORIZED DEALER

KEEPS UP HIS FIGHT AGAINST REDISTRICTING

By DAVE LEHERR
Associated Press Writer
HARRISBURG (AP) — The self-styled "mountain boy" from Cameron County has conceded a battle, but not the war, in his revolt against House Democrats over legislative reapportionment.

"I'm not done yet. Just give me some time to do my homework," declared Rep. Erwin L. Murray, D-Cameron, after majority Democrats outmaneuvered him Tuesday.

Stymied for four straight weeks by Murray's delaying tactics, Democratic leaders finally managed to come up with a new strategy to nullify the effect of bills being read at length and roll the legislative machinery of the House back into high gear.

COUNTERATTACK
Murray, who likes to call himself "poor mountain boy from the north," has been demanding since May 3 that bills be read at length, a tactic used by lawmakers when trying to force a point.

In their counterattack, Democratic leaders employed the technique of having the clerk read only the new material in bills, rather than the entire bill itself, saving several hours of work.

"I checked with parliamentar-

Memorial Unveiled By Gen. Eisenhower

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP)—Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, accompanied by his son, John, unveiled a 22-ton American credo monument in Memorial Day ceremonies at this historic spot Monday.

The former president's son is an executive of the Freedom Foundation, which owns the land beneath the monument.

The monument, made of marble, is crested by an American eagle. Along its sides are inscribed 17 rights, proclaiming the fundamental principals of the American way of life.

Freedoms Foundation also cited 252 teachers and 21 school administrators for "exceptional work in teaching responsible citizenship, patriotism and understanding of the spiritual and moral values of our constitutional republic."

ian Tom Balaban, and he told me this was legal, so I abided by his decision," Murray said. "But if I find any flaws I intend to challenge the ruling."

PRODUCTIVE DAY

The tactic paid off with one of the most productive days the House has had since the session started in January. A total of 40 bills were passed; one resolution was adopted, and nine other bills were recommitted to committee.

Murray's intra-party revolt is geared toward dislodging a pair of resolutions buried in committee that would call on Congress to amend the U.S. Constitution to allow states to apportion one house of their legislatures on factors other than population.

The proposal is diametrically opposite to the 1964 Democratic platform which endorsed the U. S. Supreme Court's "one-man, one-vote" ruling, basing legislative representation solely on population.

SEE FINAL VOTE ON SCHOOL BUS BILL THURSDAY

By VINCENT P. CAROCCI

Associated Press Writer

HARRISBURG (AP) — The

controversial school bus bill is scheduled for a final vote in the Senate Thursday, despite calls from opponents in the chamber for a constitutional referendum on the issue.

Majority leader Stanley G.

Stroup said he expected to roll

the bill as scheduled, barring some unforeseen developments.

The House-passed bill, which would require school districts providing bus transportation for their pupils to furnish the same service for private and parochial students, was released to the floor Tuesday by the Senate Education Committee.

TO COST $6.3 MILLIONS

No sooner had the bill been sent to the full Senate, than opponents introduced legislation

(SB12) which would require the question to be decided in a constitutional referendum.

The Education Committee attached one amendment to the bill. It changed the words "over-established school bus routes" to read "over bus routes established for public school purposes."

The bill is estimated to cost a total of $6.3 million, with the state bearing some $3.4 million of the cost, the local districts

the remainder.

REFERENDUM DELAY

It also is estimated that 136,

000 private and parochial school students would be able to ride

the public school buses under the measure.

The constitutional referendum was introduced by Sen. William

G. Sesler, D-Erie, who said he objected to the bus bill on constitutional grounds.

Sesler's referendum proposal would have to pass two consecutively elected legislatures and then be approved by the people in an election question before it could take effect. This means it could not be placed on the ballot before 1967.

MILLION DOLLAR BUDGET

Routine matters occupied the delegates at the first session of the convention, which was taken up with amendments to the constitution and receiving reports from officers. The Synodical president, the Rev. J. Frank Fife, expressed concern over the failure of church membership to grow at the same rate as the population in the territory of the synod. This concern was echoed by the Rev. Dr. Martin Carlson, representative of the Lutheran Church in America, who in his first address to the convention reported that the percentage gain of membership in the church during 1964 was only .079.

The delegates will meet until noon on Thursday, during which time they will receive reports from agencies of synod and act upon a budget of over $1 million for 1966.

Navigator Traces Capt. Bligh's Route

BRISBANE, Australia (AP) —Navigator Doug Olifent, 43, sailed in an 18-foot open boat today in an attempt to repeat Capt. William Bligh's 3,618-mile voyage from Tofua, in the Tonga Islands, to Timor.

Olifent's two-masted Bird of Juno has a 5-horsepower motor and a radio transmitter and receiver. He will use the motor until he reaches Tofua but not on the stretch that Bligh sailed. He hopes to cover that section in 48 days.

Bligh and 18 seamen sailed from Tofua to Timor in 1789 after being cast adrift in a 23-foot open boat by the Bounty mutineers.
